My dearest Clara,

The snow came at last this morning, soft and quiet, and the children ran out before their boots were on.
Father has brought home the tree and it stands by the window, waiting for the ribbons and paper stars.
The kitchen smells of cinnamon and orange peel, and Mother says you must come for the pudding on Sunday.
I have wrapped a small parcel for you ~ no peeking!

With love and every good wish for Christmas,

Edith
